Expensya by Medius

Is expense management costing you more than money?

Expensya from Medius:
Replacing stress with simplicity.

37% of finance and expense pros say that processing expense reports is a drain on time, productivity and satisfaction.

35% say it takes too long to pay employees back.

50% say they're cutting long-term priorities to meet short-term targets.

Ask yourself: Is your process helping or hurting?

Is your expense management system increasing productivity and speeding up payments? Is it spotting errors and stopping fraud? How about improving cost control and forecasting?

Or maybe you're working late to pay people even later. Or missing mistakes in all the mayhem. Or grasping at cost control and guessing at what the future holds.

Well, you should know that expense management doesn't have to be this costly.

We can't solve everything. Just the hard stuff.

Expensya replaces the strain of managing expense reports with a people-first focus that puts finance in control and eliminates frustration for every user. Here's how:
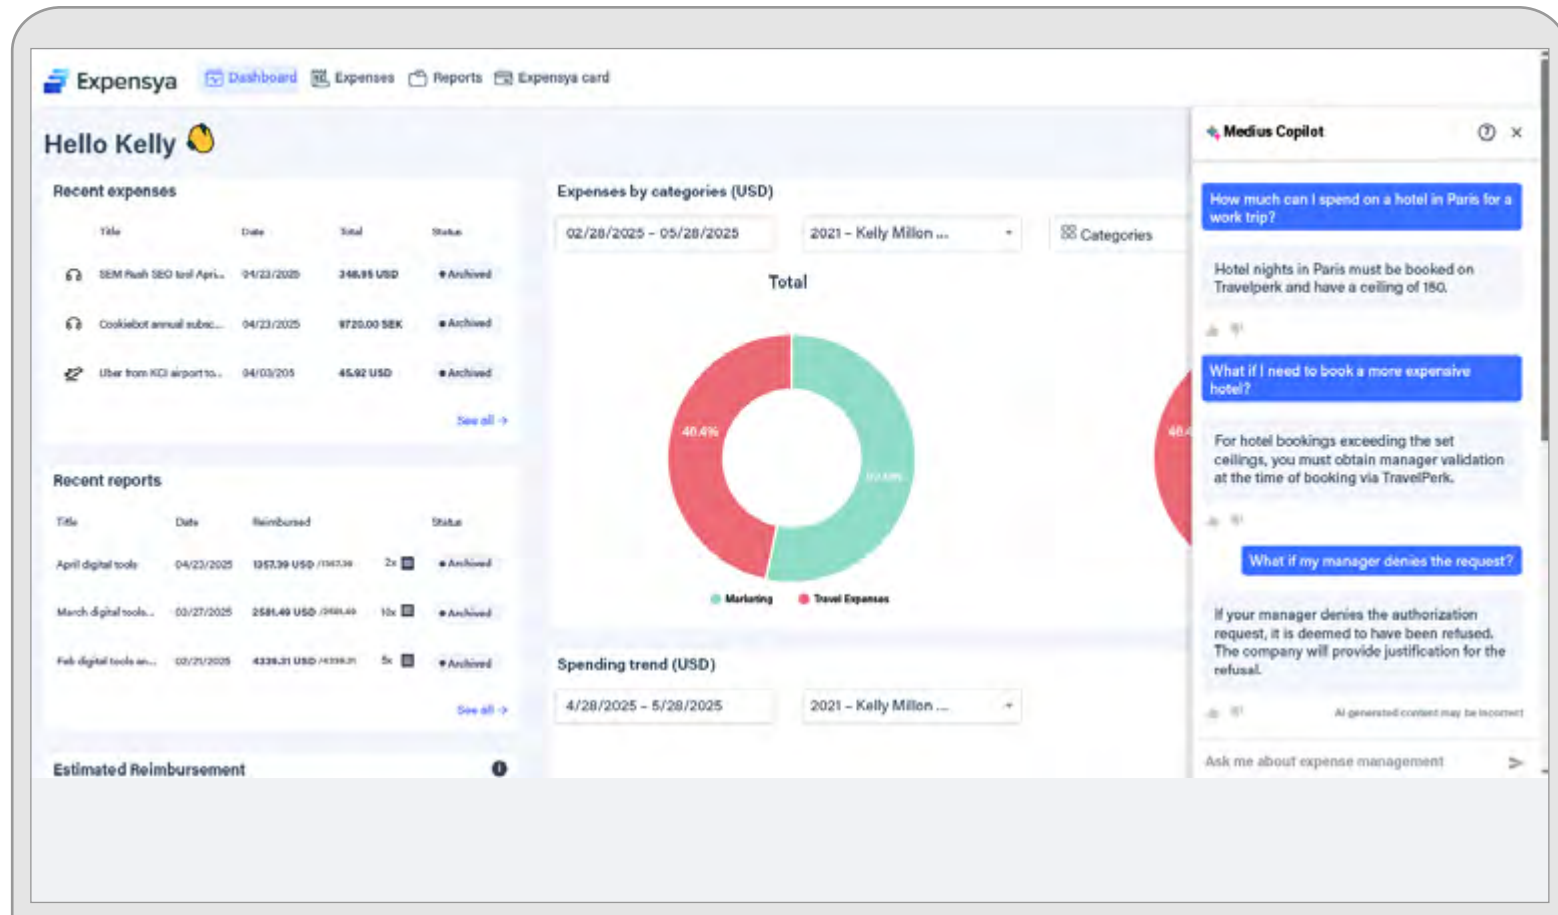

1. Intelligent tech does the work for you.

2. Employees get simple spending parameters, so they get what they need and you get control.

3. It's all on an app that's easy to adopt and adapt.

Now let's dive a little deeper.

Intelligent tech does the work for you.

Get more accuracy with less work.

Expensya is built on intelligent tech—from AI to ML to OCR—so it accurately and automatically captures all the relevant data: amounts, dates, means of payment, currency, merchant name, VAT, and more.

And it does so in dozens of languages and multiple formats. All while eliminating the need for manual checks or reviews.

In a word: perfect.

Take manual tasks off your to-do list.

Switch to Expensya and switch to an entirely paperless expense process. It's secure, it's compliant with your local legislation, and it puts an end to duplicate data entry—keeping data flowing between your expense system and payroll, HR, travel, and other payment solutions. All right out of the box.

And when it comes to capturing mileage, you can cancel those calculations. Google Maps measures it all automatically, based on distance, vehicle, and employee history.
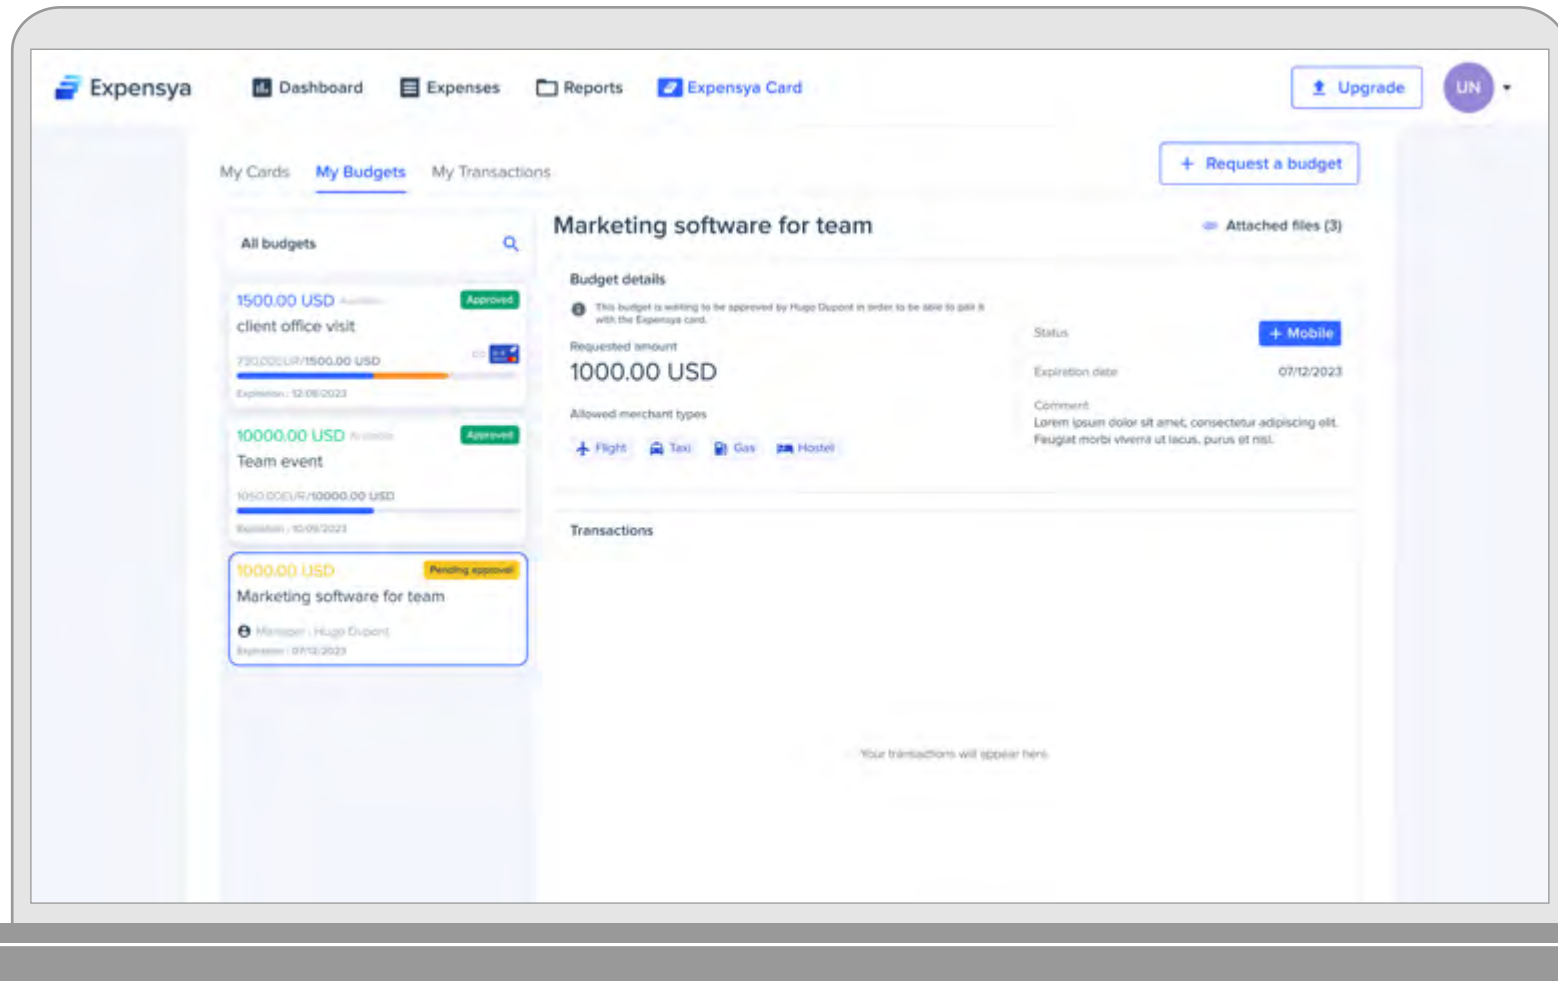

Keep your users in the know.

Load your travel and expense policies into Expensya, so you can give users instant, accurate responses to your spending policies with Medius Copilot for Expense.

And that support covers everything from system questions to policy clarifications—so no one's left guessing, and they never have to bug you with questions.

Offer spending freedom and retain financial control.

When you shift from post-purchase apologies to upfront approvals, you get total control over what gets spent, and you ensure compliance across the board.

Expensya gives employees a card they can shop with—plus simple budgeting tools they can follow—so they can buy what they need for work without inching past your polices. This also eliminates cash advances and out-of-pocket expenses, so reimbursement isn't an issue.

It's a proactive approach to managing spend, and it's always easier to manage money before it's gone.

Set users free by setting the terms.

Put virtual or physical Expensya cards in your employees' hands, and you give them purchasing power without sacrificing control.

How? You set the payment limits, expense categories, budgets, vendor types, and the days and hours that the cards will work. So no one can spend a cent without you knowing it beforehand.

It's easier for you, and because employees literally cannot spend out of policy, it's less stressful for them.

2 Employees get what they need and you get control.

Enjoy a little cashflow and compliance confidence.

Expensya points out risks before they turn into costs—using automatic anomaly detection to spot out-of-the-ordinary expense amounts, identify unusual spending patterns, and validate receipts.

It's like fighting fraud before it can fight back.

Expensya also gives you full transparency into spend with out-of-the-box dashboards and intelligence tools, so you can sharpen cashflow predictions, improve the accuracy of your forecasts and budgets, and stay ahead of costs.

3

It's all on an app that's easy to adopt and adapt.

Relax, because it just works.

Get up and running in hours with self-serve setup and ready-to-run integrations. Expensya conforms to your policies, validation levels, chart of accounts, expense limits, and more in a matter of clicks.

Keep training to a minimum and get users going in minutes with an intuitive, user-friendly interface.

Add new markets without adding stress. Expensya eliminates the complexities of managing spending across borders and among currencies by automatically adapting to the legal framework of every country you work in.

Let us help (if you need it).

Expensya subject matter experts are here whenever you need them—offering support, configuration advice, and answers to all your questions.

It's the simplest way to improve your spending and workflows without adding more work.

Let's put your tedious processes out of their misery.

Expensya from Medius manages your expenses accurately, proactively, and automatically. So you and your users can get control over costs without working overtime.

Learn more at expensya.com.
Contact us at hello@expensya.com.

Expensya
by Medius